BC Land Surveyor/Project Manager

Polaris Land Surveying Inc. is looking for a land surveyor with project management experience to join our team. Polaris is a progressive firm with projects ranging from simple one lot topographic plans, to construction and control surveys, to traditional subdivisions, and large scale strata and air space developments. The Polaris model allows team members to work virtually, from any location and enjoy a flexible schedule. This particular position is best suited for someone located in the Cowichan Valley or Greater Victoria to allow for field work, site visits and in-person client liaison.

Polaris is looking for a BC land surveyor with the following skillsets:

- A solid understanding of survey principles, methodology, and technology
- Ability to identify client needs and expectations as well as explaining land surveying requirements to potential clients
- Ability to estimate and budget survey projects
- Ability to manage survey projects and collaborate with Polaris team members
- Good communication, both written and verbal
- Ability and desire to complete field work

This role includes receiving inquiries for surveys, working with the parties to determine a clear scope, setting out the required tasks, determining a budget range, and communicating the proposal to the client. For successful proposals there would also be a project set up process, scheduling and managing the project through to completion.

If you have these skills and are seeking a dynamic environment where quality of work and client service are at the forefront, Polaris is the team you have been looking for.

This position is designed for flexible lifestyles, with the successful candidate working from a home office. If you want to skip the commute and have more free time, please contact Brent Taylor at btaylor@plsi.ca to learn more about this opportunity.
